Get used to the name 'Dead Sea Skulls' you'll be hearing it a lot...What you see is definitely what you get with this raw and exciting trio.

Coming from working class Birmingham, DSS combine hard punk riffs and infectious melodies which ooze from their tracks such as the single, "I Wanna Buy A Rolex," which was unleashed in March 2014.

Dead Sea Skulls were born in early 2013, the brainchild of brothers Jimi and Nick Crutchley and percussionist Ash Sheehan.

Their sound is loud, gnarly, raw, passionate, energetic and radio friendly enough to push them to the forefront of new music. Ash, a wizard on the drums with strong, naturally raw vocals, plays front and centre. Coupled with Jimi & Nick on bass and guitar this band's Live show is a visual and aural "Riot" that you won't be able to tear yourself away from.

The debut EP "Fortune Favours The Brave," released on Broken Banjo Records in Oct 2013, showed the bands raw style and simplicity and catapulted the band into London's live club scene with DSS gaining a residency at the famous Hawley Arms where they honed their captivating stage show and high energy antics.

The second EP "Eau De Kitchen" (so called as it was recorded in a kitchen) gave the world the single "I Wanna Buy A Rolex" which really cemented the bands style, sound and very cool visual sensibility and even the band's great acting ability and sense of humour with it's music video.

Summer 2014 saw DSS embark on their first tour across the UK, The August "Weekender Tour" mixing festivals and club shows taking the band across the UK and the Channel Islands.

After a successful live introduction to Los Angeles USA in October 2014, with club shows in Hollywood, the band smash into 2015 with their 3rd EP "Life's What You Make It" which will be digitally released via iTunes, Amazon MP3 & Spotify on 18th March 2015.

To coincide with the release, DSS return to their "home" in terms of venues, The Victoria in Birmingham on the 18th March, to headline the E.P Launch.

The band also unleash a brand new video for the track "Nothin' In The World (Hate Song)" from the new EP which continues the band's sense of humour and old school, underground vibe first highlighted in "I Wanna Buy A Rolex."

DSS are fast becoming favourites on the UK live music scene locally and nationally and are currently confirming dates and festivals for the summer and DSS will be heading back to Los Angeles this year for more shows.
